

GALLERY

The Impact of Propaganda

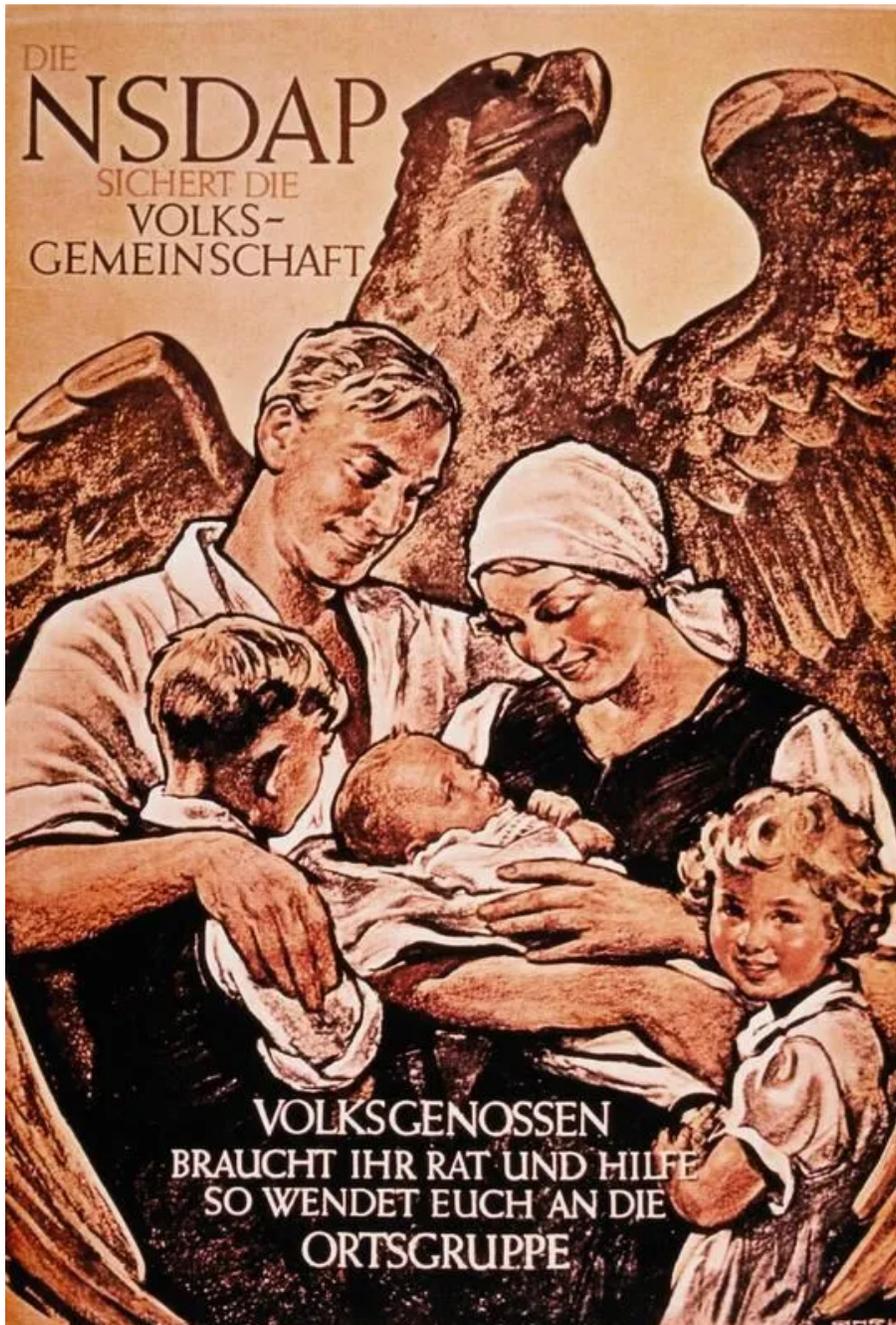

Nazi National Welfare Program

CREDIT: akg-images

This 1934 propaganda poster in support of the national welfare program reads: "National health, national community, child protection, protection of mothers, care for travelers, are the tasks of the NS-Welfare Service. Join now!"

Nazi Recruitment Propaganda

CREDIT: Glasshouse Images / Alamyakg-images

This mid-1930s poster says, "The NSDAP [Nazi Party] protects the people. Your fellow comrades need your advice and help, so join the local party organization."

Hitler Youth Propaganda

CREDIT: akg-images

This 1935 poster promotes the Hitler Youth by stating: "Youth serves the Führer! All ten-year-olds into the Hitler Youth."

Nazi Propaganda Newspaper

CREDIT: Bundesarchiv, Bild 133-075

An issue of the antisemitic propaganda newspaper Der Stürmer (The Attacker) is posted on the sidewalk in Worms, Germany, in 1935. The headline above the case says, "The Jews Are Our Misfortune."

Triumph of the Will Propaganda Film

CREDIT: Roger Viollet / Contributor / Getty Images

Leni Riefenstahl's documentary-style film glorified Hitler and the Nazi Party. It was shot at the 1934 Nazi Party congress and rally in Nuremberg.

Propaganda Portrait of Hitler

DER BANNERTRÄGER

„Ob im Glück oder im Unglück, ob in der Freiheit oder im Gefängnis, ich bin meiner Fahne, die heute des Deutschen Reiches Staatsflagge ist, treu geblieben.“

Adolf Hitler

CREDIT: Sueddeutsche Zeitung Photo / Alamy

This portrait, The Standard Bearer, was painted by artist Hubert Lanzinger and displayed in the Great German Art Exhibition in Munich in 1937.

The Eternal Jew

CREDIT: akg-images

This 1938 poster advertises a popular antisemitic traveling exhibit called Der Ewige Jude (The Eternal Jew).

Antisemitic Display at Der Ewige Jude

CREDIT: Ullstein Bilderdienst / Yad Vashem

Women examining a display at the Der Ewige Jude (The Eternal Jew) exhibition in the Reichstag building in November 1938.

Antisemitic Children's Book

„Die Judennase ist an ihrer Spitze gebogen. Sie sieht aus wie ein Sechser...“

CREDIT: United States Holocaust Memorial Museum

From the 1938 antisemitic children's book The Poisonous Mushroom. The boy is drawing a nose on the chalkboard, and the caption reads: "The Jewish nose is crooked at its tip. It looks like a 6."